

Kirk Davis the product of military dad and English Mother was raised around the world and exposed to many different countries and cultures. Art has always been a factor in my life from pencil sketched, pen and ink to oil painting. Photojournalism in school while taking classes in commercial art. Photography has always been part of my life. I was introducing the family.

Janna has been involved with the Welsh Breed since childhood doing everything from pleasure and trail rides, parades to competing for national honors. There has always been a camera in her hand taking pictures of her horses and ponies since the age of ten.

Janna is totally dedicated to her Welsh ponies and inspired me to photograph and capture equine art.

Other members of her family have introduced me to the world of the Andalusian horses.

Janna and I shared the passion for photography that encompasses the spectrum from people's places and life. We both enjoy and strive to create art that touches people's emotions.
